THE MR. WID STORY PART II

I'm still
A TWIT

When last seen Mr. Wid was floating through the Bering Strait on an ice sheet. Mr. Wid, now free of the Pole, realized that the currents were pushing him southward. After nearly three weeks at sea the half-starved Mr. Wid sighted land, a small island on the horizon. As he approached the island he noticed that it was almost entirely surrounded by abandoned navy vessels. The only inhabitants of the vessels being numerous animals.

VAROOOM!!!!!! Suddenly the entire area was brightly lit, seconds later a tremendous explosion hit the area knocking Mr. Wid into the water. When he awoke he found himself clinging to the remains of his once massive ice sheet. Not only had the ice sheet nearly melted out of existence, but Mr. Wid's entire body was simmered. Mr. Wid climbed aboard the ice; confusion set in- he had been without food or water for nearly a month yet now his energy seemed to be renewed. In fact his energy seemed to be in excess.

Little did Mr. Wid know that his former companion Scott was aboard one of the navy vessels. Scott, while campaigning in Washington was arrested and put aboard one of the ships. Scott also experienced a renewed energy and excitingly said, "Grrrrrrr!!!!"

Mr. Wid contemplated the source of his possible energy. Remembering a similar flash and explosion during his childhood. He concluded that the same phenomenon that had caused his large nose had also caused this new energetic feeling. Mr. Wid utilizing his new-found energy swam westward (nearly 1500 miles) to the United States mainland.

Mr. Wid lived on the beach in California for nearly a year experimenting with his new "power". He found that this energy gave him extraordinary strength, speed, and agility. When he discovered his ability to fly his curiosity peaked as to the cause of his great powers.

Using his powers he managed to research in many libraries and still go undetected. He discovered that both his over-sized nose and his new-found super powers were the cause of nuclear explosions. Mr. Wid, dumbfounded at the stupidity of nuclear weapons, decided to use his super powers to eliminate evil from the face of the Earth, thus making nuclear weapons unnecessary. Super Wid, a legend, was born. The year: 2000.

Meanwhile Scott had been taken back to the United States. He was pronounced "unharmed" by the navy scientists and released. He soon caught up with the two gay eskimos (now florists) and began working for them in Nowhere, U.S.A. (somewhere in Iowa).

Mr. Wid searched for a central location in the U.S. from which to start his crusade, coincidentally he chose Nowhere, U.S.A. He set up an identity as a cheap piano tuner and managed to buy a small shack of a house near the zoo. While constructing his headquarters underneath the zoo's aviary Mr. Wid was jolted by a sudden burst of electricity. Stunned, he realized that his powers were now super-charged with energy!!!

Not only did he construct the famous Wid cage, but he also constructed a super-charged baby grand piano case to make impromptu changes into Super Wid while he was on the job.

Super Wid got a chance to use his super powers not soon enough. But two weeks after establishing himself in Nowhere he apprehended a bank robber and was heralded as a local hero. The president of the bank, hoping to thank Super Wid for his deed decided to send flowers (since no true blue super hero excepts money) to Super Wid. No one knew the identity of the new hero so the banker had the flowers delivered to him at a reception in his honor. Who delivered the flowers? None other than Mr. Wid's old sidekick Scott!!! Yes, that humble albino mutt was finally reunited with his only friend in the world. The two vowed to fight evil together.

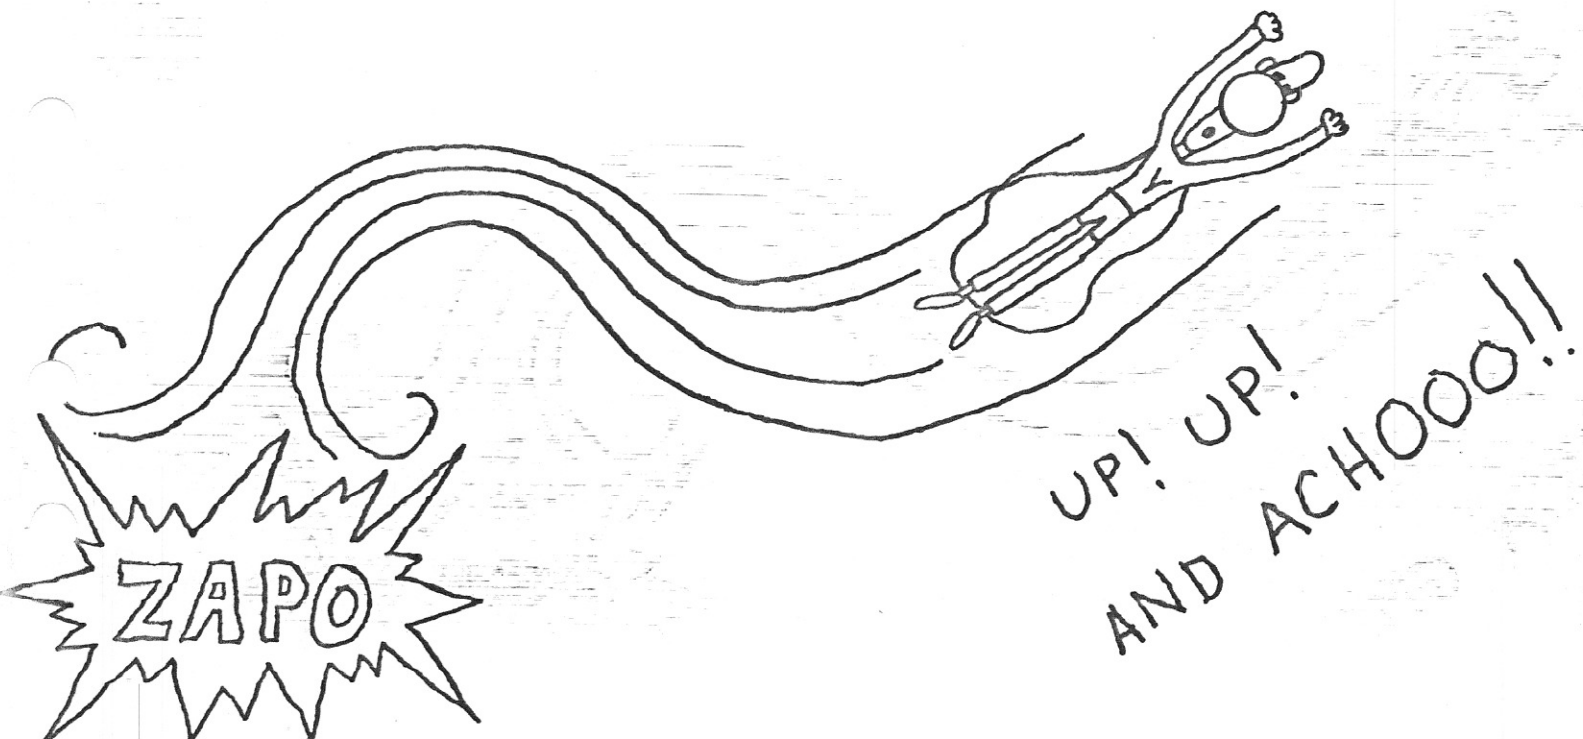

Scott, curious about how the Wid Kid had received his powers, questioned the super hero as to their origin. When Super Wid finished explaining about his fantastic energy Scott confronted him with the secret of his own renewed energy.

The two friends decided to spend a few weeks testing testing the skills and new-found powers. They wandered off into the open plains to test their feats of strength, speed, and agility. First, they decided to test their flight speed. The two took off and flew side by side slowly increasing their airspeed; 100 mph-- 200 mph-- 500mph-- then with bursts of incredible energy they began to excel to the limits of known speed; 5000 mph-- 100,000mph-- 1,000,000 mph-- 500,000,000 mph-- nearly the speed of light; 550,000,000 mph-- a final burst of energy-- BOOOOOOOOM!!!!!!! It was as if the two had hit a wall. They fell to the ground, finally awaking nearly two hours later and twenty years earlier!!!! They had defied the laws of science and traveled back in time. It was not yet apparent to our two super heroes what had happened but when they returned to Nowhere their dilemma was obvious.

The two do-gooders were not discouraged, they decided to continue their fight to rid the world of evil, their fight for truth and justice. The year: 1980.....
